

Michigan Conference

The United Methodist Church

District Boundaries Report

November 20, 2017

So if anyone is in Christ, there is a new creation, everything old has passed away; see, everything has become new! All this is from God, who reconciled us to himself through Christ, and has given to us the ministry of reconciliation.

- II Corinthians 5:17-18

God's self-revelation in the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ summons the Church to ministry in the world through witness by word and deed in light of the Church's mission.... The mission of the Church is to make disciples of Jesus Christ for the transformation of the world by proclaiming the good news of God's grace and by exemplifying Jesus' command to love God and neighbor, thus seeking the fulfillment of God's reign and realm in the world.

- The Book of Discipline of The United Methodist Church

An Introduction from Bishop David Alan Bard

At the 2017 Annual Conferences, members voted to create nine districts as we come together to form the Michigan Conference of The United Methodist Church. Following The Discipline, it is the responsibility of the bishop to draw the lines establishing these boundaries. Over the summer, I brought together an advisory group to help me with this task. We were guided first and foremost by the mission of the church - to make disciples of Jesus Christ for the transformation of the world. For the Michigan Conference, we have said that we envision a conference that is Christ-centered and connected: to engage in shared mission and ministry, to support bold and effective leaders, and to nurture vibrant congregations. With nine districts instead of twelve, we are re-directing ministry share monies to help provide staff that will work with district superintendents and other lay and clergy leaders to fulfill our mission and vision.

With mission foremost in mind, we also identified other important values in forming nine districts: honoring current shared ministry arrangements; creative possibilities for missional alignments; creativity in providing district leadership; regional identity/affinity; transportation patterns; considering resources and capacity for new districts; diversity; and connectedness.

We view the districts as serving as a primary locus for connecting and equipping local churches in the fulfillment of the Conference's mission and vision. The District will be the primary community, for both clergy and local churches, focusing on accountability to the Conference vision, continuing education, development and growth, and spiritual discernment and support.

There is still more work to be done. By the end of 2017, district superintendents will be selected, and they will begin their ministry July 1, 2018. A number of the current districts have or will be celebrating their significant accomplishments. In the spring, district conferences will be convened to name these new communities and select new leadership. In the coming months, district superintendents, district leadership, and conference trustees will select district office locations.

It is my hope and prayer that our new nine districts will be as helpful and as spirited as the districts have been in the past. I have been delighted by the work I have witnessed in our current districts and trust we will find ways to use these new districts to work out our mission and toward our vision.

Lastly, I would remind us that no structure is perfect. In the same letter where Paul tells the Corinthian Christians that their ministry of reconciliation comes from God, he also notes that "we have this treasure in clay jars" (4:7). The new district boundaries represent our best prayerful thinking. If in the future, we need to make changes and adjustments to further our mission and vision, we can and will do that. In the meantime, may we, by the grace and power of God, continue to move into the future. Confident that God's Spirit is at work within and among us so that lives and the world are transformed in the name of Jesus Christ. May we work with the courage that comes from knowing that we are loved deeply, profoundly and wildly by God, by a God who wants all to see that love.

Grace and Peace,

Bishop David Alan Bard

The 9 Districts of the Michigan Conference

The boundaries of the nine new districts of the Michigan Annual Conference are set. Missional and geographic affinity, number of churches and charges, district size were all important factors in determining boundaries. Listed are maps, stats, and lists of churches for each of the nine new districts.

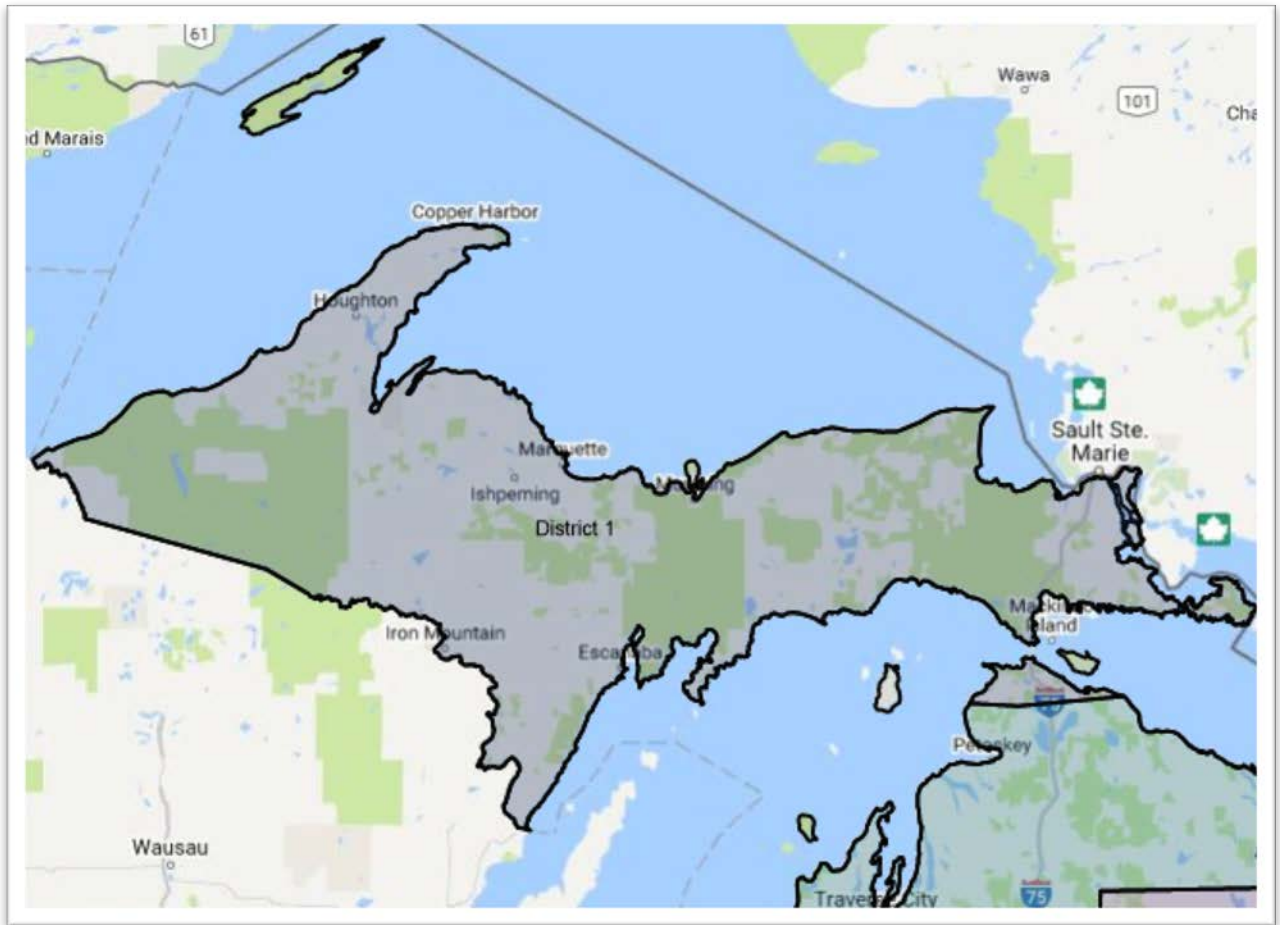

The Book of Discipline gives an Annual Conference the authority to determine the number of its districts and gives the resident Bishop the authority to set the boundaries of those districts. The Detroit and West Michigan Annual Conferences, at our 2017 joint meeting, adopted the Design Team proposal to create nine new districts for the Michigan Annual Conference. Bishop Bard convened a “District Boundaries Consulting Group” that worked in collaboration with him and the Cabinet to determine the boundaries of the nine new districts. The members of the “District Boundary Consulting Group” were Dwayne Bagley, John Boley, Jerry DeVine, Naomi Garcia, Benton Heisler, John Hice, Paul Perez, Anne Soles, Dave Stewart, and John Wharton.

Completing this important task takes us one step closer to the creation of nine new districts. The work of naming, forming, and structuring the districts continues with the goal of each district aligning with the new Conference structure, the Directors staffing model, and funding strategies in order to fulfill the new Conference Vision.
